a comprehensive anthology that draws together leading philosophers writing on the major topics within philosophy of mind comprised of readings from ancient to modern times this volume offers a comprehensive introduction to the central questions of the philosophy of religion provides a history of the philosophy of religion from antiquity up to the twentieth century each section is preceded by extensive commentary written by the editors followed by readings that are arranged chronologically designed to be accessible to both undergraduate and graduate students organized around such themes as harmony with one's self and with the world, religious ways of life, the use of reason, self-exploration, self-realization, and social involvement. The selections in this anthology, edited and introduced by Charles Guignon, explore traditional and recent philosophical thought on the topic of human flourishing.

Philosophy of Mind: Contemporary Readings is a comprehensive anthology that draws together leading philosophers writing on the major topics within philosophy of mind. Robb and O'Connor have carefully chosen articles under the following headings: substance dualism and idealism, materialism, mind and representation, consciousness. Each section is prefaced by an introductory essay by the editors, which guides the student gently into the topic in which leading philosophers are included. The book is highly accessible and user-friendly and provides a broad-ranging exploration of the subject. Ideal for any philosophy student, this book will prove essential reading for any philosophy of mind course. The readings are designed to complement John Heil's Philosophy of Mind: A Contemporary Introduction (second edition, Routledge, 2003), although the anthology can also be used as a stand-alone volume.

This collection of readings shows how cognitive science can influence most of the primary branches of philosophy as well as how philosophy critically examines the foundations of cognitive science. Its broad coverage extends beyond current texts that focus mainly on the impact of cognitive science on philosophy of mind and philosophy of psychology to include materials that are relevant to five other branches of philosophy: epistemology, philosophy of science and mathematics, metaphysics, language, and ethics. The readings are organized by philosophical fields, with selections evenly divided between philosophers and cognitive scientists. They draw on research in numerous areas of cognitive science, including cognitive psychology, developmental psychology, social psychology, psychology of reasoning and judgment, artificial intelligence, linguistics, and neuropsychology. There are timely treatments of current topics and debates such as the innate understanding of number, children's theory of mind, self-knowledge, consciousness, connectionism, and ethics and cognitive science.

Fifty Readings in Philosophy is a flexible and affordable collection of classic and contemporary primary sources in philosophy. The readings cover all the main topics of western philosophy, each one carefully edited to be long enough to present a self-contained argument but not so lengthy that students lose track of the main point. Introductions and explanatory notes make the readings accessible to students. All these features have made this book a proven pedagogical success and a best-selling reader in introductory philosophy.

Reading Philosophy of Religion combines a diverse selection of classical and contemporary texts in philosophy of religion with insightful commentaries. It offers a unique presentation through a combination of text and interactive commentary, providing a mix of classic and contemporary texts, including some not anthologized elsewhere.
